

Blend IT

Flexible Multi Vendor Certification Program

Blend IT is a flexible training program that allows you to choose the certification of your choice. It has been specifically designed to maximise your learning experience in the most cost effective manner.

Blend IT combines traditional methods of study with Instructor mentoring in a structured classroom environment. Students can work at their own pace in an environment that is conducive to learning.

Advanced Training has spent the past two years researching the study patterns of many IT professionals. We have found that the majority of Developers, Database Administrators and Engineers, self-study at home with books purchased at the local bookstore.

87% of the people who had set out to complete a major certification such as MCSE or MCSD did not complete it. Of the 13% that did, 10% took over 12 months to do so.

Studying at home can be a major challenge. With regular interruptions such as family, friends and TV, it is very easy to be distracted.

A lack of computer equipment was also a major factor in a poor study pattern. Many people don't have many computers at home and for those who had more than one, few of them could spare their personal computers to practice tasks such as DHCP, DNS and WINS.

Finally, the majority of self-studiers simply "gave up" or often postponed their studies when they could not work out the problem.

Why Do People Self-study?

- 1 The majority of people self-study due to the cost of traditional training.
- 2 People can't afford to take time off work.
- 3 Traditional training is too fast to absorb all in one session.

Certifications

- A+
- Network +
- MCSA
- MCSE

The Structure

Blend IT offers the flexibility to choose a program to suit your lifestyle, timeframe and budget.

Whether you're a computer enthusiast with virtually no experience or even an IT professional with years of IT experience, you will benefit from the flexibility of this course.

You can also design the program to suit your preferred outcome and/or timeframe.

You can choose training manuals or e-learning. The choice is yours!

Courses are held twice a week in the evening from 6:00pm to 9:00pm.

Students have email access to the trainers at any time and then full access to trainers during class times.

Students are encouraged to utilise the software and networked environment. You can choose to work through practical exercises during class, self study or even ask the trainer any question(s) of your choice.

The Benefits
